GEORGE J. MALOOF

Owner and President, Houston Rockets

Everyone knows that a top priority of a professional basketball team owner is the guys who make the plays, athletes like Moses Malone, Robert Reid, Allen Leavell. Like his brethren in the N.B.A. ownership lodge, Houston Rockets president George J. Maloof is vitally concerned with the Rockets players. But he also makes a convincing argument that he is just as concerned about the 15,000 or so other people in the Summit. Maloof, who assumed ownership of the team May 25, 1979, makes it clear that the Rocket fan is just as important to him as the Most Valuable Player on the team.

"I think that the fan has to be kept uppermost in all of our minds," he says. "The fan is the ultimate one that's going to pay for it all. And pleasing the fan is what it's all about. I see the day when a Rockets ticket will be the most valuable commodity in town, because we have only 15,676 seats to sell. If we can keep the fan or the customer pleased, that's going to happen. I don't like to let the customer down, in basketball, or in any of my businesses."

Houston fans realized quickly last season that the Albuquerque, New Mexico businessman was not going to be a "figure-head" owner. He attends as many games as possible, and, at one point last season, had an "eight-game winning streak in games he watched his club play. He makes himself visible and accessible to the people whose dollars keep the Rockets in business. Nobody sweats out a game more than him. From his courtside seat he cheers, grumbles, or comments to nearby fans. And a lot of the time he is out of the seat doing more of the same. "I'm a man of the people and it's important to me to know what people think," he says. "I don't have a Summit suite at the top of the building. I sit with fans and want to hear what they have to say."

The Maloof Companies, whose sales and revenues are in the $100 million range, include the Coors Beer distributorship for the state of New Mexico; Los Pueblos, seven hotels and motels in New Mexico, Arizona and California, with an eighth, The Classic, presently under construction in Albuquerque; Quality Import Company, a liquor and wine distributorship; and Contract Carriers, a trucking operation.

George Maloof and his family also own 73% of the stock in the First National Bank in Albuquerque. The oldest sons of George Maloof, Joe, 25, and Gavin, 24, are assistants to the President of the Rockets as well as members of the board of the Bank and of the Maloof Companies. Joe graduated from the University of New Mexico, Gavin from Trinity University (Texas). Bud Reynolds, controller of the Maloof Companies, acts as financial officer of the Rockets.

George and his wife, Coleen, who is a member of the Board of Regents of the University of New Mexico, also are the parents of a daughter, Adrienne, 20, and sons, George, 15, and Phillip, 11.

For the past five years Maloof has been Chairman of the New Mexico State Racing Commission and Chairman of the State Olympic Committee. He also sponsors "The Maloofmen," highly successful amateur baseball and basketball teams. Active in the educational community, he serves on the Board of the Independent College Association of New Mexico and is a prime sponsor of the Presidential Scholarship Program of the University of New Mexico. He offers the Maloof Scholarship for outstanding scholar-athletes of Albuquerque High Schools and currently is serving as Chairman of the Fund Drive for the schools of the Archdiocese of Santa Fe.

Maloof, 57, was educated at New Mexico Military Institute, the University of New Mexico and the University of Colorado. He is a member of the N.B.A.'s television committee.

RAY PATTERSON

General Manager, Houston Rockets

Citing four playoff appearances in the last six years and three in the last four, Houston Rockets owner George Maloof April 28 awarded Ray Patterson a three-year contract to continue as General Manager of the team, a position he has held for the past eight years.

"In my year as an N.B.A. owner," said Maloof last spring, "I heard the same conclusions from league personnel, fellow owners and other general managers, that Ray is one of the best front office leaders in professional sports. In all my businesses, I seek the best to direct the day to day operation. And there is no doubt in my mind that Ray is in that category."

The Rockets achievement of making four playoff appearances in the last six seasons is bettered by only Washington with six and Philadelphia and Seattle with five each, while Patterson's direction of marketing efforts has seen continuing attendance increases. The Rockets 471,051 total fans last season was the highest in the 13-year history of the franchise. Over two million fans have viewed home games over the past five years.

"Our efforts will continue into making this the best franchise in the league," says Patterson. "We are playing in the most dynamic city in the country, in the most beautiful arena in the league. We want everything about our operation to be first class, and we guarantee a hustling, fighting, scrapping team. We're not going to oversell ourselves yet, but without promising any specific number of wins, we are shooting to win the Midwest Division. We aren't saying anything about the world championship yet, but we want to have a team that our fans can grow with."

Prior to coming to Houston in the spring of 1972, Patterson was operating chief of the Milwaukee Bucks for four years. As a 12-year general manager in the N.B.A. his longevity is exceeded only by Boston's Red Auerbach and New York's Eddie Donovan. His dozen teams have a 53% winning percentage (523-461) and have been in seven playoffs. His 1971 Milwaukee Bucks won the World Championship in only their third year of operation, the quickest title ascent in league history. Only Auerbach among current general managers can claim more than one World Championship.

In 1977 Patterson was voted by his peers as The Sporting News N.B.A. Executive of the Year as the Rockets posted a 49-33 records, tops in club history, won the Central Division and went to the playoffs final four. Patterson is only the third general manager in the Rockets history, Jack McMahon having served one season, 1967-68, and Pete Newell, four, 1968 through 1972.

Born in Lafayette, Ind., Patterson graduated from Wayland Academy in Beaver Dam, Wis., and then earned Bachelor and Master's degrees at the University of Wisconsin. As a 6-3 center he played four years of varsity basketball, being team captain leading scorer and most valuable player in his final two seasons.

Following college, he played three seasons with the Flint, Mich. team in the old National Basketball League, and then, after a year as an assistant coach at Wisconsin, he returned to Wayland as basketball coach in 1949. In 1954 he was named president and headmaster of the school.

He was named first president of the Milwaukee Bucks in 1968 and helped guide the team to a World Championship, two Midwest Division titles and three playoff spots in four years. He was named to his position with the Rockets May 1, 1972.

Patterson and wife, Ruth, reside in Sugarland, Texas with son Peter while son Steve and daughters Liz and Peggy are students at the University of Texas. The Patterson's oldest son, Pat, a Princeton University graduate, lives in California.

DEL HARRIS

Head Coach, Houston Rockets

Del Harris, who guided the Houston Rockets to the final eight teams in the playoffs after a second place Central Division finish, was rewarded by club owner George Maloof with a three-year contract May 1, 1980.

"Del's achievements merited the contract," said Maloof. "In his first year as an N.B.A. head coach, he integrated four new players into a new system, overcame 100 player games lost due to injury or illness, and yet managed to rally his players to the 3rd best record in the team's history. With an N.B.A. season under his belt and his 20 previous years of coaching experience on all levels, there is no doubt as to his qualifications to continue directing the progress of the team."

The Rockets 41-41 record, ninth best in the league, tied for second place in the Central Division. After the February 3 All-Star Game, Houston went 16-13, 8th best in the league. Houston eliminated San Antonio in the first round of the playoffs before falling to Boston in the Eastern Conference semi-finals.

"We can put together a team that can get the job done a piece at a time and move up without having to be destroyed totally," says Harris. "We'll be striving to develop a team that has the proper chemistry. We have a solid nucleus of young players, and team orientation and aggressiveness will continue to be key words. Fans should be able to relate to this team."

During the course of last season Harris showed his coaching flexibility by switching to a double-post line-up and playing a slower tempo game with more emphasis on defense. Over the final 29 games, of which they won 16, the Rockets surrendered 106.1 points compared to a 110.7 full season defensive average. Houston also held the opposition to a .485 field goal percentage over the final 29 games after having allowed the opposition to connect at a .500 clip the first 53 contests.

Nine times over the final 27 games the Rockets held the opponent under 100 points, three times under 90. Houston also excelled in close games, going 5-3 in overtime games, including two double overtime victories. The Rockets were 6-1 in games decided by one-point and 22-13 in games decided by five points or less. Houston won six season series, lost five, and tied 10.

Prior to last season, Harris had served three years as an assistant coach of the Rockets, coming here August 14, 1976.

A native of Indiana, he graduated from Plainfield High School and last spring was honored as that school's Alumnus of the Year. He then graduated cum laude from Milligan College (Tenn.) where he was a four letter winner in both basketball and baseball.

Harris began his coaching career on the prep level and compiled a 79-36 .687 record during five years at Tennessee and Indiana high schools. He then served as head coach for nine years at Earlham College in Richmond, Ind., where he had a 175-70 .714 record and averaged over 20 wins during his final seven years there.

For seven summers he coached in the Puerto Rico Pro League, posting a 154-79 .661 record and winning three national championships. He also coached the Iberia, Spain team for a year in the European Pro League.

Prior to joining the Rockets in 1976, he had been an assistant coach with the A.B.A. Utah Stars and at the University of Utah.

He has had two books published by Parker Division of Prentice-Hall, Multiple Defense for Winning Basketball (1971) and Coaching Basketball's Zone Offense (1975).

Harris and wife, Joyce, reside in Alief, Tx. with four youngsters, Larry 18, Alex 17, Stan 13, and Carey 12.

CARROLL DAWSON

Assistant Coach, Houston Rockets

Carroll Dawson joined the Houston Rockets as assistant coach June 17, 1980. He had been with the sporting goods division of the Converse Rubber Company since 1978, but prior to that had been on the basketball coaching staff at Baylor University for more than a dozen years, three and a half as head coach. As a high school senior, Dawson was the star of the Alba, Texas team which posted a 44-3 record. He went on to earn junior college All-American honors under Coach Boyd Converse at Paris, Texas Junior College. He then led Baylor in scoring and rebounding, 13.3 and 7.3 as a junior in 1958-59 and 16.4 and 8.8 as a senior in 1959-60, under Coach Bill Henderson. Dawson returned to Baylor in 1963 as an assistant to Bill Menefee and in 1973 he was named head coach. After three and a half seasons he resigned mid-way through the 1976-77 campaign, having compiled an overall 42-51 mark which included two fourth place finishes in the Southwest Conference. Following his departure from Baylor, he worked for a year in the scouting department of the Dallas Cowboys football team. He got his first taste of N.B.A. coaching this summer working with the Rocket youngsters in the Southern California Summer Pro League.

DICK VANDERVOORT

Trainer, Houston Rockets

The only trainer of the Houston Rockets since the club moved to Houston in 1971, Dick Vandervoort is in his 10th season in that capacity. Only Atlanta's Joe O'Toole, Golden State's Dick D'Oliva, Philadelphia's Al Domenico and Phoenix's Joe Proski have been with the same club longer than Vandervoort's Rocket's tenure. Dick came to the Rockets after 11 years as the head athletic trainer at Washington State University in Pullman, Wash. A native of Concordia, Kansas, he graduated from the University of Kansas in 1958. He served as trainer for one year at Wichita State University before going to Washington State. In addition to his responsibility for keeping the players healthy, Vandervoort also is in charge of all travel arrangements for the Rockets. As Chairman of the N.B.A.'s Trainer's Association, Vandervoort represents that group at meetings with the Player's Association and the league's team doctors. The father of sons Mark, 17, and Todd, 15, Dick and his wife, Concetta, reside in Greenwood Forest.

GENE PETERSON

Broadcaster, Houston Rockets

The man who packs the excitement into every play-by-play broadcast of Houston Rockets basketball on KTRH Radio-740 is Gene Peterson. His enthusiastic play calling style has made him a favorite of Rockets partisans since he took over the duties for the 1975-76 season. Now in his sixth campaign with the Rockets and third on KTRH Radio, Peterson is only the fourth play-by-play man in the club history. Jerry Gross, 1967-69, Bill Howard, 1969-70, and Art Eckman, 1970-75 preceeded Peterson, but only Eckman handled the broadcasts after the Rockets moved to Houston from San Diego in 1971. Prior to joining the Rockets, Gene served as Sports Director of KPRC Radio in Houston for a year. A native of Albert Lea, Minn., he studied at the Brown Institute in Minneapolis. After three years of Air Force duty, he began his radio career in 1963 with KBRK in Brookings, S.D. He also worked at WECL in Eau Claire, Wis.; KOB in Albuquerque, N.M. and at KCMO in Kansas City, Mo. Gene and his wife, Marsha, reside in Kingwood with their family, Todd, 17; Jennifer, 14, and Paul, 8.

NBA High Point Game: 32 with Philadelphia

Vs. Portland 12-11-76

Married: Wife Emily, son Michael Joseph 1

The past season was a frustrating one for Mike Dunleavy who had to miss 31 games due to injury. In the third game of the season he ruptured a ligament in his left thumb at New York and that sidelined him for 18 games. He returned to the line-up in late November and played in 30 more games before suffering a bruised right thigh at Indiana January 29 which put him on the sidelines for 11 more contests. He was able to return to the club February 24 and played in 18 more games. Mike hopes the injuries are in the past, though in training camp this year on the opening night he suffered a slight ankle sprain, but he was able to practice the next day. Then on the fourth night he caught an elbow to the head which required 10 stitches over his left eye, though that didn't shelve him from practice. A brand new son, Michael Joseph, born to wife Emily in Fort Worth September 15 however did keep Mike away from practice for a day. So now Mike is hoping for a healthy year for all of the Dunleavys. Shortly after coming back from that first injury last season Mike handed off a career high 16 assists in a Rockets win over Detroit December 7 and before being sidelined for the second time came up with his Rocket point high of 31 against Washington January 18. Ironically, that night Mike missed a free throw which would have given the Rockets 135 points and would have given 11,183 fans a free chicken dinner from Ron's Krispy Fried Chicken. And still more ironical was the fact that in each of the five games over the past two years that the Rockets have scored 135 to treat the fans to the dinners, Mike was the player scoring the 135th point. And the folks at Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" might be hard-pressed to figure out some odds on that happening. Consider that the Rockets have scored 135 points only 19 times in 533 games over their 13 seasons. And the odds of one player making the 135th point five times have to be astronomical. But Mike has become "The Chicken Man" to Rockets fans, who are sure to be shouting "We Want Chicken" during the coming season. "Mike is a hard-nosed floor leader," says Rockets Coach Del Harris. "He can be the guy who can nail down a win in the final minutes of a game. He is an extremely heady player and he knows what it takes to win."

The Rockets move into the Western Conference this season where the "big" guard is standard equipment with more than half the clubs possessing a backcourt player 6-5 or better. The Rockets "big" guard is Tom Henderson, who is 6-3. "It'll be real tough," says Henderson, "but we can get away with it sometime." Rockets Coach Del Harris thinks Tom can do the job. "He can do a better job than his height indicates. He became a pro because he has something extra." Henderson says he felt a lot of pressure last season. "There was a void when John Lucas left, and when we didn't go farther than the second round of the playoffs, I'm sure a lot of people held me responsible. But this year I just feel mentally better. I'm happy to be here and happy about the chance to play an important role." One of the big jobs that Tom did last year was against San Antonio's George Gervin in the first playoff round, particularly in game one, a Rockets win. Gervin was held to 14 points, while Tom himself scored 16, blocked two shots, and was in Gervin's chest all evening. Henderson's first year with the Rockets was also marked by injury, a sprained right big toe early in the season, and illness, the flu later in the year. He came on strong toward the end of the season, posting his assist high as a Rocket with 14 against Detroit March 28. Henderson averaged 23.5 minutes, 5.5 points, and 4.1 assists. The Rockets were 26-19 when he played 20 minutes or better in a game. Tom was the playmaker for the 1978 World Champion Washington Bullets and in his two seasons the Bullets went 104-60. His best scoring season was a 14.2 mark while with Atlanta in 75-76 and he twice has placed among the league leaders in assists. He ranked fifth with a 6.9 average in 76-77 and eighth at 6.0 in 78-79. After two years at San Jacinto Junior College, Tom started for the 1972 U.S. Olympic team at Munich and was the third highest scorer on that team, behind only Dwight Jones and Mike Bantom. After two seasons at Hawaii with 20-point scoring and 7-assists averages, he was the seventh player selected, by Atlanta, in the 1974 college draft.

MAJOR JONES 6-9 225 Forward

Age: 27 Born: 7-9-53 McGehee, Ark.

High School: Desha Central, Rowher, Ark.

College: Albany State (Ga.), 1976

Pro and Rockets Season: 2nd

How Acquired: Signed as free agent 9-11-79

Prior Career: 2nd Round Draft Choice,

20th overall, Portland, 1976, 76-77 and

77-78 Allentown (Pa.) Eastern League;

78-79 Fresno (Calif.) Western League

N.B.A. High Point Game: 17 vs. L.A. 12-5-79

An apt description of Major Jones probably is one used by writer Robert Falkoff of the Houston Post: "He's 100 percent meat and potatoes, 0 percent dessert. And the N.B.A. can use more players like him." "Major is not a flashy player," says Rockets Coach Del Harris, "but he is the kind of guy who can help you win." After playing in the Eastern and Western Leagues for three years he finally made it to the N.B.A. last season. He and Moses Malone were the only Rockets to play in all 82 games last season. Major averaged 18.8 minutes, 5.3 points and 4.6 rebounds. He had his high point game, 17, against the Lakers, while four times he grabbed ten rebounds. A second round pick by Portland in 1976, Major was released by the Trail Blazers after they tabbed Maurice Lucas and Moses Malone in the A.B.A. dispersal draft. But after three years he was back in the N.B.A. and vividly recalls his first regular season game at Boston. "Starting an N.B.A. career in as historical a place as Boston and the Boston Garden meant a lot to me. Seeing all those championship banners and such. It finally made me realize, hey, I'm here in the N.B.A. Major was one of six Jones brothers to play at Albany State where brother Oliver is now the head coach. Brother Wil had a nine-year pro career, in the A.B.A. with Miami, Memphis and Kentucky and in the N.B.A. with Indiana and Buffalo. Brother Caldwell now in his 8th pro campaign is with the Philadelphia 76ers after being with St. Louis, Kentucky and San Diego in the A.B.A. While at Albany State Major grabbed 2,052 college rebounds, a figure surpassed only by Marvin Webster of Morgan State who had 2,267. Major led division two N.C.A.A. rebounding in both 1974-75 and 1975-76, 22.5 average as a junior, 19.8 as a senior. He scored 22.3 as a senior, 23.6 in his junior year. The six Jones brothers, led by Major, ranks as the top six on the Albany State all-time rebounding list. As the season begins Major seems to have made a complete recovery from off-season knee surgery to remove cartilage from his left knee.

ALLEN LEAVELL 6-1 170 Guard

Age: 23 Born: 5-27-57 Muncie, Ind.

High School: Central, Muncie, Ind.

College: Oklahoma City, 1979

Pro And Rockets Season: 2nd

How Acquired: College Draft, 5th Round, 104th overall, 1979

NBA High Point Game: 22, at Det. 1-19-80 and at Wash. 2-28-80.

Allen Leavell came out of the fifth round of the draft last season to become only the third rookie ever to lead the Rockets in assists and in field goal percentage. Art Williams in 67-68 and John Lucas in 76-77 were the previous top rookie playmakers, Elvin Hayes in 68-69 and Calvin Murphy in 70-71 were the previous rookies with the best accuracy. Possessing verticle leaping ability along with a blend of speed and quickness to go with a confidence belieing his 23 years, he was the "Cinderella story" of the 1979 draft. The 104th pick over-all, he was voted to the second All-Rookie team by league coaches and to the first All-Rookie team selected by Basketball Digest. His club leading assist mark was 5.4, his field goal percentage .503. He also averaged 10.9 points while playing 27.6 minutes per game and hit .814 from the free throw line. His single game point highs both came on the road, at Detroit and at Washington, when he hit for 22 points. One of his 22 at Detroit was a desperation shot at the end of three quarters which most observers termed "in the 60-foot range" and it swished through the net to tie the score as the Rockets went on to post a 102-99 victory, Leavell also making a key block in the final seconds. Another memorable evening was in the 11th game of his pro career when he hit two free throws to ice a 102-100 win at Atlanta giving the Rockets seven straight wins, their longest of the season. Allen did save a few first year highlights for the home folks at the Summit. His assist high of 17 came there against the New York Knicks Feb. 13 and he also chipped in with 19 points in a critical 122-117 win which was a determining factor in playoff berths later in March. Earlier in the season, on November 28 at the Summit, he came up with what have been described as "two of the most spectacular plays ever witnessed in the building." Cleveland guard Randy Smith, one of the league's swiftest players, had a breakaway. Leavell caught him from behind and slapped away the layup try despite Smith's 3-inch height advantage. Later that night Cavs guard Austin Carr had a similar breakaway attempt swatted from behind by a leaping Leavell. Both plays were crucial as the Rockets had to go into overtime before getting a 113-111 victory.

Bill Walton, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Swen Nater and Truck Robinson are the only N.B.A. players with better rebounding seasons than Moses Malone in the last four years and none had a better average than Malone's league leading 17.6 in 1978-79. As a rookie in 76-77 Moses was third in rebounding, his 13.1 trailing Walton's 14.4 and Abdul-Jabbar's 13.3. In 77-78 only Robinson's 15.7 bettered Malone's 15.0. Last season his 14.5 mark was topped only by Nater's 15.0. Add in his league season record of 587 offensive rebounds in 78-79 and league single game offensive rebound mark of 19 and it is no wonder that Malone is known as "The Chairman of the Boards." Time and time again, he has been at his best in the "big" games and has earned the label of the Rockets "Money Player." His response to that moniker: "If that means they are paying me to play hard, I guess I am. I'm just out there playing hard, that's all. I love to play hard and I love to win." After Houston knocked San Antonio out of the playoffs, Spurs Coach Bob Bass remarked: "We just couldn't handle Malone's size. If you can't get physical with Moses, he can kill you." He did just that with a 37-point, 20-rebound effort in eliminating the Spurs. As steady as have been his rebounding statistics, so also are his scoring figures. He has been fifth in the league in scoring each of the past two seasons, 25.8 last year, and 24.8 in 78-79 and has an N.B.A. career mark of 20.8. He has scored in double figures in 155 straight games, dating back to Nov. 1, 1978 when Golden State limited him to nine points. Only Abdul-Jabbar with 225 consecutive double digit point games has a longer current string. Moses has been selected to play in the last three All-Star games, the last two as a starter. Only Abdul-Jabbar, Magic Johnson and George Gervin received more votes from the fans last year. Moses was named to the second All-Star team at the end of last season, after winning Most Valuable Player honors and receiving first team recognition in 78-79. Many accolades have come his way in a very short time, maybe none as fitting as this from his teammate Calvin Murphy: "Each night he shows everyone his overwhelming desire to succeed. He has an unbelievable desire to be great."

Always respected as a scorer, veteran guard Calvin Murphy finally last season was earning recognition for his defense. In fact, his defense was credited with being the major facet of three mid-season victories over Indiana, Detroit and Atlanta last year. "I'm usually matched up with the other team's playmaker. If I can slow him down early, make him use up as much time as possible, then my teammates don't have as much defensive work to do," explains Calvin. Scotty Robertson, now the head coach at Detroit, says that Calvin "is so aggressive, he just doesn't think anybody can beat him. He is such a competitor that he won't give up regardless of the size of the guy he's guarding." Though Calvin just has started getting compliments on his defense, there is no question that he is one of the most consistent scorers in basketball history. As a collegian his 33.1 career scoring average is the fourth best ever, behind only Pete Maravich, Austin Carr and Oscar Robertson. As a pro Calvin has scored 15,212 points, 30th best in N.B.A. annals, and 8th best among active performers. Last season was his tenth consecutive with a thousand or more points, an achievement equalled by only 21 others. Calvin has averaged better than 20 points in five of his ten pro campaigns, the last three seasons in a row. Three times he has ranked among the league scoring leaders, 5th in 77-78 at 25.6, 11th in 75-76 at 21.0 and 20th in the 73-74 at 20.4. 73-74 probably was his best overall statistical season. In addition to being 20th in scoring, he was 2nd in assists at 7.4, 4th in field goal percentage at .522, 6th in free throwing at .868 and 9th in steals at 1.94. Calvin has been in the top ten in free throw accuracy in each of his ten seasons, seven times placing second, including last season, and also placing 3rd, 6th and 10th. He is the second best free throw shooter of all time with a career percentage of .886, trailing only Rick Barry's .900. Calvin made his only All-Star Game appearance to date in 1979. Only Earl Monroe and Pete Maravich among active guards have more career points than the former Norwalk (Conn.) High School All-American. He is the Rockets all-time leader in games played, points, assists and steals and has the club's single game point high of 57, against New Jersey March 18, 1978.

Billy Paultz joined the Rockets January 17 for the final 37 games of the season, the last 20 of which he started, and in the very last of which he starred. And that last one was a mighty big one as far as the Rockets placement in the Central Division was concerned. Billy, hitting on 12 of 17 field goal tries and 4 of 4 free throws for his Rocket point high of 28, led Houston to a 121-106 win at Indiana. That victory gave the Rockets a 41-41 record to tie San Antonio for second place in the Central and because of the Rockets better conference record than the Spurs the home-court advantage in the first round of the playoffs. Billy can ask for overtime pay last year, as prior to coming down Interstate 10 to the Rockets he had played in 47 games for the Spurs, giving him a season total of 84 games, two games over the regular season schedule. Billy played an average of 26.5 minutes per game with the Rockets and scored 8.6 points and had 7.2 rebounds. Durability is certainly an important aspect of Billy's ten pro seasons. He has missed only 15 regular season games in that span of a possible 826. Ironically, Billy originally was drafted by the Rockets, seventh round in 1970. But he opted to go with his college coach at St. John's, Lou Carnesecca, to the A.B.A. New York Nets. He played with the Nets five seasons, twice making the All-Star Game, and playing the starting center role on the Nets' 1974 A.B.A. championship team. Billy has averaged 13.0 points and 7.9 rebounds and has a .503 field goal percentage since coming into the N.B.A. with San Antonio in 1976. Making the playoffs with the Rockets this spring marked the 10th straight season he has been on a playoff team, five with the Nets, four with the Spurs, and now one with the Rockets.

With a Houston Rocket emphasis on youth and speed, Robert Reid certainly fits the mold in both categories. "With Robert and Moses Malone, both 25, and Allen Leavell, 23, we've got to have three of the youngest players on one club with better proven pro credentials than any team in the league," says Rockets general manager Ray Patterson. Robert had his best statistical campaign last year, averaging 13.0 points, 5.8 rebounds and 3.2 assists while performing both at forward and at guard. Robert came back brilliantly last season following illness which struck him during January and February. He returned to the line-up March 2 after an attack of pericarditis, an inflammation of the sheath around the heart. "When I was in the hospital it was frustrating," he says, "but coming into contact with some handicapped children, I realized my problems were insignificant. When I left the hospital, I had a totally new spirit." It showed. Over the last 16 games he averaged 16.4 points, 5.8 rebounds, 4.3 assists and hit .512 from the field. On March 22 he hit his pro point high of 31 when he hit 13 of 20 from the field and 5 of 6 free throws against Indiana. Reid's play in the final month helped the Rockets to a second place finish in the Central Division as well as the home court advantage against San Antonio in the playoffs. Prior to that series, Spurs Coach Bob Bass termed the match-up between Robert and Spurs' All-Star forward Larry Kenon as a key one in the series: "That's quickness against quickness and jumping ability against jumping ability." The Rockets won the series, two games to one, and the stat sheet bore out Bass' prediction. Reid: 15.3 points, 6.8 rebounds and 2.3 assists; Kenon, 8.7 points, 4.3 rebounds and 1.3 assists. Though the Rockets were themselves knocked off by Boston in the next round, Reid's playoff stats showed a 20.0 point scoring average, 9.0 rebounds, and 4.2 assists. In addition to his basketball talents, Robert is among the most community-minded of professional athletes. "Fans support us and we should give some of our support to their causes," he says. He is active in Special Olympics, Big Brothers and the Texas Children's Hospital.

Rudy Tomjanovich and Calvin Murphy are Mr. Rockets. Both have been Rockets ten years. They were rookies together in San Diego and have been fixtures in the line-up in the nine years the team has played in Houston. Rudy T recently inked a three-year contract with the team with which he has spent his entire pro career. And he's looking forward to the coming season, rather than looking back. "Last season was one of the most frustrating I've ever been through." A series of nagging injuries, particularly a troublesome left Achilles tendon, started on the first day of the regular season. "I've learned how to stretch the tendon when it doesn't feel right and that's really going to help. I feel I went out and played last year many times when I was only 70 percent. I hope I can be 100 percent all season long." His scoring, 14.2, and rebounding, 5.8, averages were his lowest since his rookie season and the 77-78 campaign when he suffered the facial fracture which sidelined him three-quarters of the season. Late in February last season, in a game at Utah, Rudy erupted for one of those streak shooting nights which prompted Jazz Coach Tom Nissalke to remark: "Rudy still is an awfully tough player. He's still a guy you can go to late in a game when you've just got to have points." Rudy did just that with 11 quick fourth-quarter points boosting the Rockets to a 94-82 victory. Rudy ranks high in most all-time Rockets statistical categories, leading in rebounding, second only to Murphy in points scored. His 12,780 career points ranks him 48th on the N.B.A. all-time list and he figures to move up quite a bit higher on that chart before his playing days are over. Prior to his 1978 injury, Rudy had made the All-Star game four straight times and then returned from his year's recuperation to be named to the game for a fifth time, most of any Rocket, and as a starter by the votes of the fans. Rudy has led the team in scoring four times, in rebounding once, and in field goal percentage five times. His career field goal accuracy mark is .503. Rudy was 7th in NBA scoring, 24.5, and 3rd in field goal percentage, .536 in 73-74, 17th in scoring, 20.7 and 3rd in field goal percentage, .525 in 74-75, 7th in field goal percentage, .517 in 75-76, and 15th in scoring, 21.6, in 76-77.

The disappointment in the Rockets top 1979 draft pick has turned to delight in Lee Johnson this season. Coach Del Harris said at the time the Rockets selected Lee that he needed a year or two to be a good player. Lee went to the Italian League, sharpened up his game, added a few pounds to his slender frame, and has returned stronger than ever. After averaging over 21 points and nine rebounds for the Rieti, Italy team, he came back to join the Rockets in the Southern California Summer Pro League where he was everything short of sensational. He made the second All-League team as he led the loop in blocked shots, 2.33, was 6th in scoring, 24.7, and 3rd in rebounding, 10.4. "The 15 pounds I put on make me feel so much stronger. Last year it seemed like I had trouble making it through half a practice. But working with the weights has made a world of difference this time around." East Texas State posted a 23-7 record in Lee's senior year when he was named first team N.A.I.A. All-American. The Lions were 26-10 Lee's junior year and advanced to fourth place in the N.A.I.A. tournament, losing to eventual champ Grand Canyon despite Lee's 22 points and 15 rebounds.

Paul Mokeski saw very limited action in his rookie season after being drafted by the Houston Rockets on the second round of the 1979 draft. He began the season on the injured list with lower back strain, then played in a dozen games, mainly during December, before going back on the injured list the remainder of the year. He made a "Perfect" regular season debut against Cleveland Nov. 28. In ten minutes he was two for two both from the field and the line for six points as well as pulling down four rebounds. Paul was the 5th best rebounder in Kansas history, trailing only Bill Bridges, Wilt Chamberlain, Dave Robisch and Clyde Lovellette. In his senior year he averaged 14.1 points and 8.3 rebounds as KU was 2nd to Oklahoma in the Big Eight. Paul played with the Rockets team in the Southern California Summer League and averaged 6.3 points and 5.7 rebounds.

The Rockets top pick in the draft, their first round choice having gone to Washington for Tom Henderson, second round selection John Stroud is the all-time scoring leader at Mississippi with 2,328 career points, a 21.2 career average. He ranks behind only Pete Maravich as the highest scorer in Southeastern Conference history. John was 12th in the nation at 25.2 last season, 8th in the country at 26.3 as a junior. Selected to the third team Associated Press All-American squad, he was the most fouled player in the country, going to the line 292 times or nearly ten times a game. He connected on 233 free throws for a .798 percentage. He helped lead Ole Miss to a 17-13 mark, the most wins for the school since 1938, and a berth in the N.I.T. John played with the Rockets in the Southern California Summer Pro League and averaged 10.1 points.

The Midwestern City Conference Most Valuable Player while at Oral Roberts last season, rookie Calvin Garrett garnered his honors at a forward position. In the pros, he is likely to see action at both forward and guard. An outstanding college scorer, he ranked 26th nationally last season with a 22.2 mark. Despite high point games, he was known as an unselfish player whose coach, Ken Hayes, actually had to prod him to shoot more. Two big Oral Roberts wins came over Oklahoma City and Marquette and Calvin fired 26 and 27 points respectively at those schools, while saving his biggest college point explosion, 34, for his final game when the Titans won the conference title by beating Loyola of Chicago. Calvin began his college career at Austin-Peay and then transferred to Oral Roberts with Coach Lake Kelly.

DON'T JUST ASK FOR EXTRA SPACE
IN YOUR PICKUP, DEMAND IT.

Many economy sized pickups promise you savings. But at what price? Do you have to scrunch up with your knees under your chin, balance your groceries precariously on the seat, leave your valuables at the not so tender mercy of passers-by? Not when you have 11.3 cubic feet of storage space inside the cab you don't for over-six-footers to stretch out in, with a place inside to stow the groceries and lock up your valuables. Whatever you do with an economy pickup, a King Cab gives you more to do it with. Lots more. And a test sit, stretch, stow will prove it to you. So come on in and sit, stretch and stow. Today.

DATSUN KING CAB.

NOBODY DEMANDS
MORE FROM A DATSUN
THAN DATSUN.

DATSUN
